1 Define how you see yourself in your daily life. Really be honest with who you think you are. Your personality is instrumental in how you are seen in your day-to-day life. Your belief system is completely responsible for how you perceive the world around you.

a. List those parts of your personality that you find are positive.

b. List those parts of your personality that you find are negative.

c. List your beliefs about being:

HAPPY

ABUNDANT

2 The world around you is evidence of who you are. You see yourself in all the people you come in contact with.

a. List those things that you see in people that you really like.

b. List those things in people that you really don't like.

3 What you have to offer the world is your Gift. Not just the gift that you have been given; but the Gift that you have to share with the world. You have been uncovering and developing your gifts and talents throughout your life. When you know these gifts and talents you begin to realize that you do have a Gift!

a. Discover your unique gifts and talents by listing in the left column below those things that you really enjoy doing and in the right column list the things that you are really good at doing.

What I enjoy doing

What I'm good at doing

b. Now look at the two lists above and notice if there are things common in both lists and write them below. Are there any that you could combine? If so list them as one item below.

You have been given and have developed a set of gifts and talents that are unique. There is no one else in the world that has these same gifts and talents in the combination that you have. You and only you can make the difference in the world in the way that you can or will.

4 Each of us has a divine intent or a mission. Our mission is really a combination of what difference we are meant to make in the world, the people we affect and any changes or transformations that we help facilitate by sharing our talents and gifts. Our divine intent or mission isn't unique, it is shared by many others around the world.

a. What are you passionate about seeing changed in the world?

b. Who are the people you enjoy working with that want or need the Gift you have to offer? List them below with what you have to share and how it will impact them.

c. The most difficult thing to get a grasp of is your Divine Intent. There will always be a tendency to resist or believe that you have a mission, a calling, that is so big and so important. List below some things that might keep you from recognizing or fulfilling your mission.

5 It is very important that you not only know, but you live your purpose and share it in the world. List the people in your life that you know will support you on this journey. Spend more time with these people because they will help you believe in yourself. You can empower yourself to live a life based on purpose.. List below the ways that you can begin or continue to support yourself.

Supportive People

Empower Myself
